>5000 students registered

Counselling Services

- Case management
- Wellness workshops
- Peer programs
- Psychotherapy/counselling

<600 students accessing

Academic accommodations

Based on the pillars of dignity, full-participation and individualization

Appropriate academic accommodations:

- Remove barriers for students that are impeded because of their disability, but have the requisite skills and abilities to be successful
- Minimize the impact of the student's disability on their academic performance
- Help students develop strategies so they no longer need accommodations

Accommodations do NOT:

- Guarantee success
- Allow the curriculum/program/course to be modified
- Change learning outcomes

Flexible pathways for students

ALS: First Appointment

I am a student who...

- prefers direct interaction with the counsellor.
- would like to ask questions and share your experiences and learn firsthand about the available supports and services

ALS: Digital Review

I am a student who...

- prefers to not to meet directly with a counsellor.
- would like to receive an email with your accommodation plan and information on accessing supports and services.
- has appropriate documentation regarding disability related needs and is familiar with the accommodation process

ALS: Consultation Appointment

I am a student who...

- suspects they have a disability but lack documentation and is struggling academically
- is unsure about the available supports and would like to gather information on how to obtain an assessment

Accommodations Process

- Accessibility Counsellors review disability documentation, and your historical information, and work with you to develop an accommodation plan
- After meeting with an Accessibility Counsellor, students share this information with faculty through a Letter of Accommodation electronically each semester
- The Letter of Accommodation details all essential accommodation information that your faculty need to know to support you in the classroom
- ALS takes your privacy very seriously and operates on a need-to-know basis with your personal and confidential information.

Our new approach to wellbeing

- Focusing on academic stabilization
 - balanced wellness to support academic success and human skill development
- Curating a menu of services along the mental health continuum
 - effective support includes resources beyond Seneca community
- Shifting 1:1 Counselling to our long-standing community partner
 - identity specific support (gender, culture, disability, trauma, language)
 - Rapid and flexible access (evening + weekend)

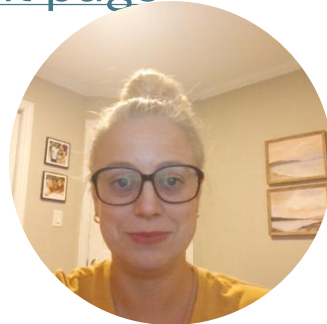

Responsive stepped care
