

In Conversation with Global News' Kamyar Razavi

Published 4/17/2023 by Katherine Apostolou

Kamyar Razavi is a climate change reporter with Global News and a former producer with Global National. On April 20, you're invited to join in on the conversation around climate change. Led by Mr. Razavi and hosted by Robert Ballantyne, professor, School of Marketing & Media, guests will learn how the ongoing climate crisis affects Canadians, including who is likely to be the most affected. Mr. Razavi will also discuss the role that artificial intelligence (AI) and related technologies play in addressing climate change in the near future.

Join us virtually between noon and 1 p.m. to attend this In Conversation event.

tags : student-news