

Seneca Polytechnic helps students develop human skills for career success

Published 5/9/2023 by Stephanie Conte

oft skills, people skills, human skills: whatever you call them, they're essential to career success. Traits such as interpersonal communication, curiosity, ambition, reflection, critical thinking and collaboration are what employers are looking for when hiring their future leaders.

That's why Seneca Polytechnic is launching this initiative to prepare students with the transferable human skills to thrive in their current, or future, careers.

Read more about the human skills initiative

tags : student-news