Educational institutions play a special role in building a more equitable world. We are many things — an employer, a teacher, a gathering place, social venue and community space — and we have unique opportunities to offer mentorship and support, modelling examples by what we do, how we do it and the environment we create for teaching and learning.

As part of Seneca Au Large, we are working to build the equitable Seneca, free of systemic racism and discrimination.

Everyone is responsible for equity, diversity and inclusion initiatives for students and employees to be integrated successfully at Seneca.

Whether it's better representation in our classroom and curriculum, resources for students in need, accessibility for all or ensuring everyone's rights are recognized, there is much work to be done.

Seneca has accepted the challenge and we need your help. We invite your ideas as we work together to build the equitable Seneca.
