Bentley applications are available for Civil Engineering and Building systems program. Seneca students and faculty can access the Bentley software/license for their personal devices until March 31, 2021.

To get the school code, please contact your instructor. This code is required when faculty and students create their personal account on the Bentley's STUDENTserver website. This login account provides self-service Bentley software download and installation on your home computers, sign up for and take training, and more.

To access Bentley's STUDENTserver, use the following link: <http://www.bentley.com/studentserver>

The STUDENTserver provides the following important services:

- Download of more than sixty of the latest version of Bentley software products
- Site activation code (license) to activate any and all of the Bentley products downloaded and installed
- Direct access to recommended onDemand Elearning (online) courses via the Bentley LEARNserver
- Review of the logged-in user's Bentley Professional Training Transcript
- Professional Networking and product support via Bentley's Be Communities social network site
