

From Seneca graduate to international fashion innovator

Published 5/28/2024 by Sheila Murithi

Eunice Chow, a graduate of Seneca's School of Fashion and a current technician, was featured in FashionX magazine's 2024 spring edition. In the article, she discussed how refining her skills at Seneca Polytechnic, under the guidance of her professors, led her to win the Avant-Garde Award and gain the confidence to innovate.

Ms. Chow has remained committed to sustainability and inclusivity, encouraging aspiring designers to pursue their dreams with creativity and determination. Her efforts have gained her international recognition, including a CAFA nomination and a showcase in Milan.

tags : student-news