

Seneca's Applied Research projects highlighted in recent report and showcase

Published 9/3/2024 by Sharon Lindores

Applied Research brings expert faculty, students and industry partners together to work on a wide range of projects to address real-world challenges.

They've helped develop everything from an AI-driven chatbot to agricultural formulas. You can read more about their work in the Applied Research Annual Report and the 2024 Applied Research Project Showcase – both of which were recently published.

The showcase features brief descriptions and posters from projects completed in 2023-24. You can vote for your favourite poster online and the most popular one will get the People's Choice award at the Applied Research Day, which will be held at Newnham Campus on Oct. 21.

There will be more information about that event in the weeks ahead.

tags : student-news