Looking for a space to connect with other like-minded Seneca students while you study? Join us in our King Learning Centre space during our designated Study Hall hours.

Aimed to provide a unique study space on campus to meet the needs of diverse minds, we created a peaceful atmosphere with controlled lighting, a brown noise machine, and more. King's Study Hall is good for students who thrive in calm, low-stimulation settings.

You may join or leave at any point during a Study Hall. Just bring your homework and class materials with you. Peer led adaptive learning support will also be available. You may ask for guidance on basic study skills, navigating accessible learning strategies, applying accommodating tools during studies, and campus resource suggestions.
