

Seneca Polytechnic opens new IELTS test centre in partnership with British Council Canada

Published 3 days ago by Ryan Flanagan

Anyone who needs to test for English proficiency has a new option to do so at Seneca Polytechnic.

Seneca announced today that its Newnham Campus will be home to an official test centre for International English Language Testing System (IELTS), a standardized English test trusted by the Canadian government, educational organizations, employers and professional associations around the world.

The test centre will be open to Seneca students as well as students from other schools and members of the community.

Read more

tags : feature-stories