MEd, Academic Chair, School of Hospitality & Tourism

Angela utilizes her entrepreneurial business sense and transformational style to encourage innovation in the design and development of traditional, open, and alternative learning and teaching opportunities.

She brings vision, passion, and academic leadership to Seneca College, building around emerging industry trend-lines and quickly transforming skills gaps into relevant, responsive programming to support graduate success and industry needs.

Angela's goal is to engage, motivate and inspire service leadership while serving a technically savvy and globally connected community.
