How to Learn Online

Version 2

Learning online may be a new experience for some students with distinctive challenges and opportunities. Are you wondering what you need to improve to help you learn online? Check out this Self-Assessment to point you in the right direction. It will help you to get started in understanding your strengths and weaknesses for learning online and which resources to access so you can get the support you need.

Students may find as they take online courses that they struggle with staying motivated, navigating technology and studying smart. The Learning Online hub offers some strategies and tools that will help students be successful while learning online.

tags : learning-online