

Season 4, Episode 4: Eunice Kays Yeboah

Published 1/11/2022 by Tiffany Hsieh

Liberal Arts graduate Eunice Kays Yeboah joins host Pat Perdue to talk about her work as an anti-racism policy consultant with the Toronto Transit Commission. The conversation touches on the importance of challenging narratives around racial discrimination, the role of support networks and mentors, and the importance of viewing one's own choices as having a multi-generational impact.

Listen to the podcast

tags : edi-news, podcasts