Credentials

Seneca offers programs that lead to the following credentials: certificate, diploma, advanced diploma, graduate certificate and degree.

Digital Credentials

A digital credential is an electronic version of your Seneca credential that may be shared with employers or other institutions to verify that you have successfully completed your academic program.

Seneca is using a new Canadian digital credential platform called MyCreds to issue academic documents electronically. These digital credentials are certified and considered official, and can be shared securely with educational institutions, employers and other third parties.

For information about how to access, view or share your digital credential please visit our FAQs.

Note: Digital credentials are only available for students who completed their program as of December 2021.

Printed Credentials

Printed credentials will be mailed to all eligible graduates after final grades are released and eligibility to graduate has been confirmed.

Timing

Credentials are mailed via courier (UPS) and can take eight to 12 weeks for delivery.
