This fall, the Canadian men's national soccer team will be making its first FIFA World Cup appearance since 1986, and a Seneca graduate has been on the sidelines to capture the ups and downs of the team's historic season.

"There have been a few epic celebrations this year," said Martin Bazyl, who graduated from the Photography \(previously Independent Photography\) diploma program. "Every time they score, or when you walk out into a stadium with the team and people are cheering, you get a rush."
