Sara Sarhangpour is a Toronto-based illustrator and artist and a graduate of Seneca's Illustration diploma. Her work reflects and intertwines her personal experiences with her love of all things cute. Her illustrations have been described as comical, whimsical and imaginative, set typically in bright and pastel backdrops, depicting a bright and cheery scene of everyday experiences.

Sara believes she subconsciously makes work that illustrates and evokes feelings of hope and positivity, even in the absence of hope, moving the viewer to viscerally respond to it, bringing warmth to their day. She works digitally but also enjoys traditional mixed media including pencil crayons, ink, markers, watercolour and acrylic paint.
