

Seneca partners with fintech startup to explore AI possibilities in financial trading

Published 10/20/2022 by Kelly Mathews

Max Trokhimtchouk has always been fascinated by math and technology.

The entrepreneur is hoping that an idea combining the two will lead to more affordable artificial intelligence (AI) for financial trading.

The founder and CEO of the Toronto-based fintech startup Featuremine Corp. has teamed with Seneca Innovation on an applied research project to test a new machine learning concept.

Read the full story

tags : feature-stories