

Seneca celebrates Black History Month

Published 2/1/2023 by Stephanie Conte

Every February, Seneca recognizes Black History Month and the achievements and contributions of Black Canadians, who have done so much to make Canada the culturally diverse and compassionate country it is today.

Throughout the month, Seneca students are invited to participate in a number of events taking place, including:

Wednesday, Feb. 1

- Celebrate Black History Through the Arts with Jonathan Emile
- Strong and Free with Garvia Bailey Podcast Discussion

Wednesday, Feb. 8

- Celebrate Black History through the Arts with Afiwi Groove School
- Strong and Free with Garvia Bailey Podcast Discussion

Wednesday, Feb. 15

- Celebrate Black History Through the Arts with Ian Keteku
- Strong and Free with Garvia Bailey Podcast Discussion

Wednesday, Feb. 22

- Ask Me Anything with Garvia Bailey

Additional information is available on the space.
