For further support, check out togetherall, a safe peer-to-peer mental health community that is accessible online 24-7. It's free to all students and staff. In a time in which social isolation, loneliness and anxiety are already increasing mental health issues, COVID-19 is creating additional challenges. At togetherall, members can share feelings and concerns with each other while underpinned by our team of clinicians who are experienced and prepared to provide health anxiety support. During uncertain times, we must come together as a community.
