The Computing Commons is an open area where computers are available for students. Access to computers require Seneca credentials and multi-factor authentication. The Computing Commons are located at the four major campuses: Newnham, Seneca@York, and King.

The workstations feature up-to-date hardware and software. While Printing Services are available for every workstation, there is also the capability to scan your document at the designated scanning machines. Hardware loans including laptops are available via the Loaner Services.

Students can also obtain technical support services in-person from the ITS Student Service Desk team.
